Class Struggle on Campus: Student & Worker Activism in Public Higher Education Public colleges and universities are sites of both social inequality and social mobility, of labor exploitation and job training, of both paid and unpaid student labor. This course will explore these issues by introducing students both to critical studies of higher education, and also by introducing them to various student and labor organizers on the UCLA campus who see the democratization of higher education as part of a broader struggle for economic and social justice in the U.S.	LBR&WS 188-1	Griffey	TR 10:00am 11:50am
Out of the Archives, Into the Streets: History, Memory, and Labor Struggle in Los Angeles Want to get your hands on the real story of Los Angeles workers? Join Historian Tobias Higbie for a dive into the archives of the Justice for Janitors campaign, the Los Angeles Alliance for a New Economy (LAANE) and the hotel workers union, Unite Here. Together with other labor and community organizations, these groups helped transform the politics of Southern California at the turn of the 21st century. Using original historical documents, oral histories, and news accounts, students will create a public exhibition documenting the struggle to make L.A. a city that works for workers.	LBR&WS 191-1	Higbie	M 1:00pm 3:50pm
Organizing Models and Best Practices of Sanctuary in Los Angeles Designed for participants in 2019 Community Scholars program. Focus on current national debate on sanctuary for immigrants. Students conduct research on history of sanctuary, its roots in religious tradition, and current debate on sanctuary policies, including those focused on municipalities and college campuses. Students learn from faculty, organizers, government officials, and key academic experts about emerging organizing models of sanctuary movement; best practices; and changing landscape of sanctuary law and policy. Key outcomes include production of policy reports, popular education materials, and book publication by UCLA Labor Center. Interest in class policy findings are already solicited by California state legislature members; potential to engage policy makers and other change agents is prime focus. Class expected to make future impacts and opportunities for UCLA and Los Angeles scholars. Enrollment Restriction: Instructor's consent Please submit your application online: http://bit.ly/labor194	LBR&WS 194B	Romero	W 5:00pm 8:00pm Location: Downtown Labor Center
